Jeffers Drafts Report After
Order Limiting Supplies
For Fall, Summer.

NEW OIL REPORT DUE

Estimate Manufacture of 30
Million Synthetic Tires
During 1944.

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—Rubber Director William Jeffers drafted a report for the White House today predicting that it will be possible to lift all tire rationing restrictions next spring unless there are unforeseen military demands.

This was the forecast after it was disclosed that James F. Byrnes, head of the office of war mobilization and "president of the home front," had asked Jeffers to make a report on the rubber situation to him.

The action was taken, according to Byrnes' office, after Jeffers recently issued orders tightening up the available number of tires by ruling that no certificate would be issued for purchase of spare tires for automobiles.

There has been some concern expressed in Washington that the tightening up of the restrictions was due to a slowing down of the synthetic rubber program.

Actually, it was learned, Jeffers issued the order to conserve rubber supplies through the summer and fall. The need for conservation developed partly because the anticipated number of casings for recaps did not develop.

However, big new synthetic rubber plants are expected to come into operation on schedule late in the fall, and it was estimated that some 30,000,000 synthetic tires may be available by the end of 1944.

Complete details of the rubber program are expected to be included in the report to Byrnes.

Meanwhile, the war mobilization director said that he may make public within 10 days or two weeks a report on his new investigation into the entire petroleum situation. However, Byrnes refused to forecast any improvement in the gasoline rationing restrictions.

Conversely, he said that it was more important to see that there were adequate supplies of fuel (home heating) oil this winter than it was to consider needs of

Mansfielder Wins Ohio Luther League Declamation Award

A Mansfield Senior high graduate today owned a $200 scholarship to Wittenberg college for winning the state declamation contest sponsored by the Luther league of Ohio at Lakeside last night.

He is Eugene Rexrode, son of Mrs. Martha Rexrode, 75 Penn. avenue. He defeated three other contestants, each representing one of the four conferences in the Ohio synod.

Eugene's declamation was on "A More Excellent Way." The contest was the fifth staged by the state's Luther leagues and was held in conjunction with the Ohio synod meeting now in progress at Lakeside.

In addition to the scholarship, Eugene also won a gold key, presented by Russell McCullough, Mansfield, state Luther league president. The scholarship award, as well as the awards to the other contestants, was presented by Phil Lottich, assistant to the president of Wittenberg. McCullough presided over the contest. Eugene plans to enter Wittenberg in the fall.

HARVEST WHEAT, BUT STORE IT

Farmers Hang on To Crop In Hope of Higher Price;
Millers Anxious.

Richland county farmers were busy today harvesting their wheat crop, which varies from poor to good, but the grain is being held on farms for better prices, threatening a flour shortage in milling centers, Mansfield millers said.

Although threshers and combines are in operation in virtually every section of the county, little new grain has been sold despite a 50-cent increase in price over this date last year.

New wheat was selling for $1.62 in Mansfield today as compared with $1.09 at this time last year, but farmers are still hoping for a better price because of the small crop in the midwest, millers said.

Grain received so far has been of poor quality, testing from 55 to 57 pounds per bushel, said J. O. Hanley of the Hanley Milling company. Yields are averaging less than 20 bushels per acre, far below last year's big crop, he said.

Some good yields were reported today, however, in the northern part of the county where Arthur Mellick, Bloomington township, harvested one field that produced 40 bushels an acre and another which averaged 34 bushels.

Triton Missing on Patrol Duty,
Navy Reports.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The 1-475-ton U. S. submarine Triton, which had bagged at least 11 Japanese warships and merchant vessels since Pearl Harbor, has been lost while on patrol duty, the navy announced today.

The Triton is the 10th U. S. submarine to be lost in the war. It was built in 1940 and had a normal complement of about 60. At the time of its loss, it was commanded by Lieut. Comdr. George K. MacKenzie, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The navy said relatives of the Triton's personnel had been informed of the loss.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—So that many of the 267,000 Axis prisoners captured in North Africa may be moved to this country "as quickly as possible," new internment camps are to be built throughout the United States and existing ones are to be enlarged.

In announcing those plans yesterday, the war department disclosed that 65,058 Axis prisoners were interned in 38 camps in this country, and that the capacity of camps already built was 139,164.

Predicts New Airport Will Be City's 'Greatest Asset'

Mansfield's new municipal airport will be equal of any in the state of Ohio and will do more for the city than any other new enterprise in the city's history.

That was the prediction of James R. (Bud) Harrington, manager of the present airport, to members of the Optimist club at a dinner-meeting last night at Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The new port will be built with an initial allotment of $600,000 from the federal government on a 1,000-acre tract of land directly north of the present field. Construction is expected to start early next year.

Speaking on "The Future of Mansfield and Air Transportation," Harrington said Mansfield was on the threshold of air supremacy. "We will have an airport as fine as any in the state—one which will accommodate any type of aircraft," he said.

"Mansfield will be only 60 hours from the most remote place in the world when the port is completed," he said.

Harrington said local business would be aided. "We will maintain transportation of business materials and will be able to ship anything from lumber to golf balls."

Payne Sees Tax Collection of 100 Per Cent For Period.

With less than a month remaining before the August 20 deadline for paying second half of 1942 real estate taxes, Richland counties still owe Treasurer Charles Payne nearly $500,000.

But the treasurer believes collections will be 100 per cent, according to present indications. He reported today a collection of more than $200,000 toward the estimated total of $750,000. Collections have been running "true to form" with an average of $16,000 per day, the treasurer said.

"We're going to have to have some big collection days before August 20 if we're going to have a 100 per cent collection," Payne predicted today.

While more was paid out in direct relief during June, medical service costs were nearly $350 lower than in May. Administration costs were also lower.

During the past year administration costs have declined proportionately with direct relief costs. They have decreased from the high figure of $2,033,721 in March, 1938, to June's figure of $623,56.

COUNTY ASKED FOR 8 MILLION

That's Our Estimated Share of Third War Loan Drive,
Seeking 15 Billion.

Richland county's share in the Third War Loan drive to raise $15,000,000,000 will be approximately $8,000,000, Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the county war savings committee, estimated today. He said he had not yet received official word concerning the goal for the county.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr. today made the announcement of the all-time world's record goal for the war loan drive which will start on Sept. 9.

Greatest difference between the second and third war loan drives, outside of the increased goal, is the fact that all of the money will be sought from individuals, corporations, insurance companies and other non-banking sources. Commercial banks will not be permitted to participate although they did in the other two drives.

With a goal of $6,649,000 for the Second War Loan drive in April, Richland county under the leadership of H. G. Brunner and Eliot co-chairmen, raised more than $8,000,000.

Plans for the September drive will be made by representatives of women's committee in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio meeting in Cleveland July 26 and 27.

Mrs. Louis J. Ott, chairman of the Richland County Women's War Savings committee, will attend the meeting headed by Mrs. Dorothy Atkinson, regional advisor. Miss Harriett Elliott of the treasury department will be one of the main speakers.

(By United Press)
LONDON—Pope Pius XII's plea that Rome be spared further air raids will lead to renewed pressure on the Italian government to strip the capital of military installations and declare it an open city, European reports said today.

Eire or Spain, two neutral nations with close ties to the Vatican, may take the initiative in approaching Mussolini's government, a Madrid dispatch said.

Italian crowds shouted "Make Rome an open city" and "Peace!" during a huge demonstration in Rome's central Piazza di Venezia following the 500-plane American raid Monday, Madrid reports said.

It was considered noteworthy that the pope, in writing Francesco Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, vicar general of Rome, implied that the blame for the raid must rest on all the belligerents "no matter on what side they were fighting."

"We notified this clearly on several occasions and recommended that Rome be spared in the name of human dignity and Christian civilization," the pontiff said.

Despite his appeals, the pope said, Rome was raided and "one of the most noted of the Roman basilicas, the San Lorenzo outside the walls," was almost completely destroyed.

"Therefore," he said, "we deem it our duty once more to raise our voice in defense of the priceless treasures that constitute the ornament of human and Christian grandeur."

Official British and U. S. sources made no immediate comment on the pope's letter. It is possible that Prime Minister Churchill or Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will make the British government's answer in comments.

However, both Churchill and Eden have asserted that no intervention from any source will stop the Allies from bombing Rome as frequently as they deem necessary in pursuit of the war.

Londoners recalled that St.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The huge task of mailing approximately 7,000,000 No. 3 war ration books to Ohioans was completed today.

Italy Boot.

(By International News Service)
LONDON—A heavy British naval bombardment of Crotone, Italian naval base and airport site on the underside of the Italian boot, was disclosed in London today.

Again carrying war to the Italian mainland as the island of Sicily gradually folded under relentless Allied attack, British naval units poured shells into Crotone for five full minutes and then steamed off without having suffered any damage themselves.

Great fires were left in the wake of the attack. Crotone lies on the Gulf of Taranto and is one of the numerous Italian bases providing southern safeguards to the Straits of Otranto, which separate the east coast of Italy from Yugoslavia.

A special correspondent for Reuters news agency aboard one of the participating warships disclosed the attack in a dispatch to his headquarters.

The bombardment, the first assault on the Italian mainland by the Royal Navy since the opening of the Sicilian campaign, took place early Wednesday.

Cruisers shelled the harbor for five minutes during the early hours.

A number of fires broke out in the harbor area as a result of the shelling.

No damage was suffered by the Royal Navy and there were no casualties.

Crotone is situated approximately 150 miles northeast of embattled Catania on the island of Sicily. The harbor lies on the "under sole" of the Italian boot.

DESPERATE: Reinforcements Fail to Stem Soviets at Orel

(By Associated Press)
LONDON—(AP)—The Russians have launched a strong attack near Leningrad and heavy fighting has been raging since dawn, the German radio said today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Massed Russian planes and artillery opened up against Orel today and Red army assault troops stormed deeper into the ruptured steel and concrete fortifications on the near approaches to the almost encircled German base.

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW—German reinforcements, rushed into the Orel breaches by forced marches, counterattacked viciously in desperate efforts to halt the Russian onslaught yesterday but were smashed back as the Soviet offensive rolled on within nine miles of the German stronghold, the Russians announced today.

In a battle of increasing violence which raged 200 miles south of Moscow, the Russians said they beat through masses of enemy tanks and infantry for gains of four to nine miles and overran 90 villages.

The London radio said Hitler had ordered Orel, hinge of the entire Nazi southern defense line, held "at all costs."

ALLIED COMMAND POST, North Africa--(By Wireless)--I happen to be seeing more of the American air force than of the RAF which is the reason I have been writing almost entirely about the American part in the spectacular air history being made in Sicily.

But the British part is enormous as it has been in the air war over Germany--indeed, as it has been beginning with the Battle of Britain which was one of the most decisive battles of the world.

The British have remarkable planes and what is more they risk them with bold persistence as the losses in bombing over Germany indicates. The British gathered large numbers of the little Spitfires at Malta to play their part in forming the air cover for the invasion of Sicily.

British bombers doing heavy night work in Sicily are carrying on around-the-clock pounding which the Americans planes are giving Sicily in daylight hours.

The fact that we are now operating fighters from fields in Sicily marks the beginning of the end of the campaign. The Axis is compelled to withdraw fighters. We will continue to push our fighter cover onward and that will be the key to further Allied advances. A fighter cover is necessary if we are to protect our troops from merciless slaughter. Swarms of British Spitfires are most essential in that.

America has developed several notable air planes and for the special purposes intended nothing equals the Flying Fortress, the Lightning P-38 which probably is the most versatile plane in the air, and

FAIR ENOUGH--

By Westbrock Pegler

NEW YORK--It is unnecessary to defend the propriety of the bombardment of Rome for the act justifies itself. But the Axis was sure to raise the issue and, for the sake of the historical record, the statesmen and the press of the Allied countries will state the case for our side, emphasizing the purely military intentions behind the attack and neglecting one of the most valid reasons.

The object of a nation in war is to batter the enemy into surrender or utter helplessness. It is a life or death matter and it would be suicidal of the Allies to refrain from bombing Rome, even though cultural monuments of great antiquity must inevitably be destroyed, even to the Vatican itself if by that diffidence the enemy were enabled to turn the course of the war as it goes today and eventually win.

The enemy has shown no such consideration at any time and the Italians, he remembered, took part in the bombing of London where many fine old treasures were obliterated with obvious intent. That fact does not count in the argument, if indeed the subject is one that is open to argument, but it is only incidental, not fundamental. The only question is whether the commanders of the Allied forces in their professional judgment found it advisable to bomb Rome as a stroke at the enemy's troops, his transport and his morale. If so, and it was just so, that is the whole answer.

The United States did not start this war but, on the contrary, was attacked by a member of the Axis combination of nations. This attack committed Germany and Italy and they acknowledged as much by declaring war promptly. If it were possible for them to reach Washington they certainly would and no American would expect them to spare the White House, the Capitol, nor any church in the city nor the bureau of vital statistics nor the relics of the NYA. On the contrary, on the basis of their past performances, they could be expected to waste some of their force on objectives whose obliteration would only anger the American people whereas apparently, up to now, the American and British have concentrated on THEY'VE got the typed as a cover girl for my next picture, and in it I play two parts. Myself in 1943 and my own grandmother in 1904. In both cases I play the role of a magazine illustrator's model, and although it might seem that the change is made by simply stepping out of 1943 WAC uniform into a Gibson girl outfit, there's more to it than that. I have to reduce my waist from twenty-five to twenty-one inches. All of which may be of no interest to anyone but myself. But I think there's a story worth recounting.

I did a little reading about the other era cover girls, and I found some interesting facts about the girls who used to be on America's magazines. For example, they used to be social outcasts, generally unacceptable anywhere except in third rate cabarets and honky-tonks. Marriage between a model and a "swell" was unthinkable in those days for all the usual reasons.

The first American cover model was Martha White, subject of a number of early books and magazines, and inspiration for the frontispiece of "The Coquette" or the History of Eliza Wharton, published in 1797. And Dorothy Twine was the model for illustrating many of James Fenimore Cooper's works. She appears, for example, as the female subject in "The Pilot" and later for "The Pathfinder."

LEWIS, ILLINOIS OWNERS AGREE ON WAGE RATE

Move, Boosting Miners Pay By $2.75 Daily, Seen as Plan To Meet WLB Objections.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON -- The United Mine Workers believed today that they have plugged the loopholes in their wage case with a strategic maneuver which may bring John L. Lewis before the War Labor Board for the first time.

Lewis gave the prolonged coal mine dispute a new twist when he reached an agreement with Illinois operators to give his miners an additional $2.75 daily--$1.25 for underground travel pay and $1.50 for an extra hour of work at an overtime rate.

The agreement obviously was drafted to meet objections previously raised by the WLB to UMW demands. The UMW policy committee will meet today to approve the agreement.

In addition to WLB approval, the operators said a new contract was contingent on approval of a coal price adjustment by the Office of Price Administration. The wage increases would necessitate a price boost of about 35 cents a ton.

It was understood that the WLB first would determine whether the agreement was submitted jointly. Only the operators submitted the proposed contract to the board yesterday, and union acknowledgment that it also was asking approval would be tantamount to recognizing the board's jurisdiction for the first time.

Next the board would call a public hearing at which Lewis or a union representative would be required to appear. Should Lewis refuse as he has in the past, the Smith-Connally law now gives the board power to subpoena him if it wishes.

In the Illinois agreement, Lewis was trying tactics he has used before effectively, driving a wedge into a united front of operators and cracking their resistance. But in this case he also must consider the WLB.

The agreement raised a complex, legalistic problem for the WLB to consider. In the settlement, the Illinois operators conceded the union claim that the miners were entitled to underground travel pay since the wage-hour law was enacted in October, 1938. They agreed to a compromise settlement of that claim with a wage increase amounting to 50 cents to be spread over the two-year life of the new contract.

Then the UMW and operators agreed on a 54-minute figure for average daily travel time. The union originally claimed the time was 90 minutes but accepted the 54-minute figure from a bureau of labor statistics report.

ALCOA Turns Over Problem To Union Committee For Solution.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND--In what was believed to be an unprecedented move in industry, management of the Aluminum Company of America today turned over its absenteeism problem to its employees and their union, the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

Union representatives will interview those absent without excuses in an effort to discover basic reasons for truancy.

A union member will interview persons requesting certificates of availability before the company releases him. He will be prevailed upon to remain at his vital war job.

Any ALCOA employee remaining home without explanation can expect a visit from a representative of the union.

Dr. William P. Edmunds, area war manpower director, said that the plan would be tested Jan. 1, 1944, when it would be appraised.

"I feel very certain," said Dr. Edmunds, "that labor will carry the ball and do a good job. Labor has been blamed by too many propagandists for all absenteeism and turnover; now, at ALCOA, it will have the duty and the responsibility of seeing what it can do on this front."

George Radnor, of the company's aluminum sand foundry, will head the labor union's committee.

WOLFF TO ASK FOR RADIO BIDS

Director Prepares To Purchase New Police Equipment With $4,600 Appropriation.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff was preparing today to ask for bids on a new radio transmitter and mobile unit for the police department.

City council appropriated $4,600 for the equipment last week, and Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he had received government permission to go ahead with the installation.

He said bids will be sought on a stationary transmitter, four mobile units for cruisers, a remote control unit and an antenna system.

The new apparatus will put the Mansfield police radio system on a par with any of similar size in the country and enable officers in cruisers to transmit to another car, to headquarters, and to the Massillon state highway patrol station if necessary.

The present equipment permits contact only with police headquarters.

Bates said the modern transmitter will be more effective during the hot weather when static is troublesome and enable the police department to contact the Massillon patrol station with ease.

3,000 STRIKE, HALT TRAFFIC IN LOS ANGELES

Street Cars and Buses at Standstill; Declaring of Martial Law Seen.

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES -- Public transportation throughout Greater Los Angeles was at a virtual standstill today as 3,000 street car and bus employees walked off their jobs at 3:30 a. m. in a scheduled 24-hour "protest" strike.

Ignoring pleas of city, federal and military leaders, operators of the Los Angeles Railway and Motor Coach company eased their vehicles into parking lots and carhous--leaving more than 1,000,000 persons in this war-humming area without adequate means of travel.

Only comparatively few trolleys of the Pacific Electric Railway, other major transportation service, operated as usual. Union leaders expected Pacific Electric employees also to strike, "as soon as final ballots are counted," probably Friday.

Possibility that martial law might be declared, with the army taking over operation of the idle streetcars and motor coaches, appeared possible.

One high army official expressed opinion that Lieut. General John L. Hewitt, commanding the western defense command, may ask for presidential declaration of martial law so that the army can resume operation of the crippled lines.

The army would make no comment on this possibility.

An 11th hour appeal to cancel the strike failed dismally when 500 disgruntled bus and streetcar operators stormed away from a mass meeting called by union leaders.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron, accompanied by a delegation of military and civic leaders, had arranged to address the meeting and urge employees to call off the work stoppage. Arriving nine minutes late, Mayor Bowron and his committee found the union hall practically deserted, with workers filing into the street shouting:

"Let's get on with the strike!"

Efforts of union officials to herd members back into the auditorium proved futile.

JURY CALLED

Panel To Hear Two Cases In Common Pleas Court.

A petit jury, called for the first time in 1943, will hear tomorrow the case of Wilbur Lytle charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit grand larceny.

Also docketed for jury trial in common pleas court is the case of the contested will of Lola Krause. Since no jury met during the January term this is the first jury to be called since the September term in 1942.

Lytle was arrested April 23 on a charge of breaking and entering the garage of the Richland Beverage, incorporated, and was indicted by the grand jury.

Simon Scott, whose case was on the criminal docket this week, today changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and placed on five-year probation by Judge G. E. Kahlbeisch. Scott was charged with shooting with intent to wound for discharging a shotgun into the foot of his brother-in-law, James Thompson.

Bob DeHaven Named Madison Ram Coach

Sport Podge
by REX HESS

You know what? Those dizzies went and done it! Yes they did! I mean those Coolidge golf by moonlight guys. I don't know why they done it, but they done it. And I wish to state that this makes just as good English as it does sense. Any way you look at it.

And if you can find any sport that produces such characters as this game of golf, you are welcome to it. Perfectly normal people they may appear when out in public and pursuing the normal walks of life, but put a golf club in their hands and what have you? Brother, you said it. Not even the best barred balmy house could hold 'em.

I had no idea, the other evening, that they would go ahead and do it, although I knew there were several guys hanging around the Coolidge clubhouse porch with that idea in mind as the Moose leaguers put away their sticks and departed to their homes and wrenenot.

I didn't think they'd do it, because they were scheduled to start play at 10:30, and at 11 o'clock I ventured out into the open air and cast my eye about, and there was no more moon than you could shake a niblick at.

But they waited, I learn now, until 12:30, and then ventured forth under what passed for a full moon at that hour of the early morn.

Well, it seemed that there wasn't too much moon at that, so they armed themselves with flashlights, which they held for one another, casting the beam upon the ball in the hope the club swinger would keep his eye on beam and ball and thus find his way about.

Herb Doolittle was holding the light for Fred Huntsman, but just as Fred would swing, Herb would dart the beam down the fairway, leaving Fred in the dark.

"I want to see where it goes," Herb explained.

"So do I, but I want to see where it is before it goes," remonstrated the exasperated Huntsman.

And what kind of scores did these moonlight linksmen turn in? J. B. Moke—45.

Fred Huntsman—48.

Dick Gault—49.

Ray Shively—51.

Herb Doolittle—56.

And practically in the dark.

Shooting from the women's tee on No. 9, J. B. Moke got a good drive. "Where's the green?" he asked. "Up there," says Mike Ruff, flashing a light. And Mike's second shot stepped short only two feet from the pin. And he sank the putt for a birdie.

Now the Coolidge golfers are urging J. B. to take good care of his eyes. "If you ever go blind," they tell him, "you'll win the club championship."

Simpson Mentor Signed

Had Great Record as Tutor of Bulldogs.

BOB (JEFF) DEHAVEN, for seven years coach of John Simpson junior high school athletic teams, yesterday afternoon signed a contract with Madison high school to coach football and basketball and conduct the school's physical education program.

A graduate of Stivers high school in Dayton, DeHaven played football and baseball at Miami university, and coached basketball, baseball and track four years at Ross high school in Butler county before coming to Mansfield.

DeHaven has had a remarkable record at John Simpson where his Bulldogs won 76 basketball games and lost 13 in six years, won 18 football games, lost one and tied one in three years, and his track team dropped only one meet in two years.

In competition with Johnny Appleson junior high, the Bulldogs have made a clean sweep of gridiron and cage titles, and in the past two years added the city track championship.

The Bulldogs were undefeated in football last year, scoring 148 points to 27 for the opposition. They lost two games in basketball, one to Ontario high school, and one to the Madison Reserves.

Competent critics have credited much of DeHaven's success at John Simpson to his ability to handle young boys, not only in teaching the fundamentals of the game, but in gaining their complete loyalty.

It is understood DeHaven turned down an offer from Bowling Green high school in favor of the Madison job.

Superintendent Olan LaRue of Madison said today DeHaven would report at Madison next week to begin preparations for taking over the coaching duties this fall.

The social science job is still open at Madison, LaRue said, and an effort will be made to hire a man for that job who can also assist in coaching athletics, a job handled last year by Foster Larabee.

In taking over the Madison post, DeHaven gets a Ram football team that promises to win the majority of its games this fall, sparked by two veteran backs, Bob Anthony and Dick Bader.

Retiring Coach Al Fendrick believes Jeff will have only one real problem this fall in picking a first string eleven, deciding which of three boys to place at the center position.

Brinks Score In Every Inning

Brinkerhoff scored in every inning, but had to come from behind to defeat Paul's Friendly Store 15-12 in the Junior Parks softball league yesterday.

Paul's got 11 of their 12 runs in the third and fourth frames, while collecting only nine hits. Brinkerhoff piled up 25 safe bases. Oakes, Sanborn and Broyles hit home runs.

Prospect swamped Johns park 17-0 in the other game as Larry Madden limited the losers to only one hit. C. Sauder and Kuhn hit for the circuit.

Smith Wins Own Ball Game

Hurls Two-Mitter, Collects Three Blows.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Al Smith, the old leftlander of the Cleveland Indians, apparently wants to see how his boy boss looks in a beard.

Shortly after Indian Manager Lou Boudreau and two of his coaches declared they would not shave until the Tribe suffered defeat again, the 35-year-old southpaw marched to the mound and pitched two-hit ball to the Philadelphia Athletics to win a 7 to 0 shutout.

Opening both the Philadelphia series and the Tribe's second eastern trip, Smith aided in ringing up his ninth victory against three losses by hanging out a triple, a double and a single, batting in two runs and scoring once.

It was the third straight victory for the Indians, and the target was Jesse Flores, early-season sensation, who was nicked for 11 hits, including a three-run homer by First Baseman Mickey Rocco in the ninth inning.

The Athletics and Indians meet tonight and tomorrow afternoon before the Clevelanders move on to Washington for four games.

SPLIT EVEN

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The greatest even-stephen ball club in the National league, those Cincinnati Reds who have spun around the 500 mark in the standings at least a dozen times in 82 games, takes on the Dodgers again tonight in an effort to damage Brooklyn chances if not improve Cincinnati's.

Curt Davis is the Dodger pitcher, against hard luck Bucky Walters, who would like to win a ball game some time soon.

Yesterday's first game was Elmer Riddle's 12th victory and the score was 11 to 1. Frank McCormick hit a home run with the bases loaded in the fourth inning. The second game belonged to Frank Melton, the last of three Brooklyn pitchers, and the score was 9 to 7.

Kirby Lidge Johnny Allen, and Melton were the victims of the Reds' first game pranks. The Reds hammered out 13 hits and everybody but Dain Clay and Riddle scored at least once.

Ray Starr and Clyde Shoun were the Red pitchers who let the second game go. The Reds built up a 7-5 lead in the first five innings, but the Dodgers got to Shoun for four runs in the seventh and the Reds couldn't get them back.

All American Tourney Opens

Big Guns of Golf Fire Mightiest Shots.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO — (AP) — The big guns of golf fired their mightiest shots over the Tam O'Shanter meadows today to start the $10,000 All American open tournament, marking the event of the dazzling three-ring golfing circus which winds up Sunday.

Sixteen of the nation's best woman players also started on the first round of a 72 hole medal play tournament, while 16 of the surviving male amateurs advanced through the third and quarter final rounds. All three tournaments were carried on simultaneously on the same course.

A field of 200, professionals and amateurs, were the force attacking the All American open for the year's richest golf prize. Among them were such distinguished shooters as Byron Nelson of Toledo, who has won the two previous Tam O'Shanter opens; Sgt. Clayton Heafner of the army; Jimmy Demaret; Walter Hagen, 53-year-old Chick Evans; Jim Foryer; Lloyd Mangrum; Chick Harbert and Orval White of Winston-Salem, N. C.

White yesterday turned in a 37-33-70, two under par, to win the $150 medal for the qualifying pros.

One shot behind White came Johnny Palmer, 25-year-old pro from Badin, N. C., and Johnny Rogers, Denver, Colo., veteran and one of the longest hitters in the field.

The women's championship battle figures to involve Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, Mo., Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., and May Ryne of Rye, N. Y., a 25-year-old sensation.

Hicks, former Women's National champion, won medal honors of yesterday with a 41-38-39, three over women's.

The amateur force today found sleepy Bill Chambers, the sailor from the nearby Great Lakes Naval Training station, and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., last year's runner up, playing each other. Each was a double barreled winner yesterday.

William McCabe of Middletown, Ohio, defeated Richard McCreary of Indianapolis, Ind., one up in a first-round match but was eliminated by John Wagner of Chicago in the second round. Wagner had a one up margin.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK — (AP) — Because they couldn't even guess last spring what football would be like this fall, eastern college athletic directors put off their usual convention. But they'll gather here next week to re-make their schedules.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.
Kerr Patric, New York Herald-Tribune: "Joe Louis' tee shot was like one of those lateral passes that finish up with a loss of ten yards."

SHORTS AND SHELLS.
Denny Shell, 60-year-old harness race driver, has usurped "Long Shot" Walter Cox's nickname by bringing in three heat winners at North Randall at prices from $25 to $97.80. When he's not in the ring, Beau Jack wears glasses—but nobody ever claimed they were reading glasses. . . . Gunder Haegg, who prefers Gaffelbiter to vegetables as a training diet, couldn't get enough oranges and grapefruit during his stay in California. He kept a dresser drawer filled with them.

REASON 2001.
In addition to the usual 2000 reasons why a horse can lose any given race, Henry King of the New York Sun comes up with the news that swarms of huge gadflies have descended on the Jamaica track, making the horses so nervous from their bites that the nags don't run according to form. . . . the jockeys aren't immune, either.

Lulu Constantino Beats Old Chalky
CLEVELAND — (AP) — Ancient Chalky Wright interrupted his cigar smoking last night long enough to lose a fight, and enhance the reputation of a promising young featherweight.

New York's Lulu Constantino was awarded a unanimous 10-round decision over the 31-year-old former ruler of the featherweight division.

It was just another scrap for Wright, who has stepped into the ring more than 300 times and has beaten Constantino twice. But the 21-year-old Lulu viewed the outcome as the means of getting another shot at lightweight contender Bob Montgomery.

After the fight, Wright gave the youngster a boost saying: "The kid's learned a lot and is improving fast."

The bout extended Constantino's winning streak to 10 and ended Wright's string of 11 victories. Constantino weighed 130½, Wright 129½.

In another 10-rounder on the card, Lloyd Marshall, 164, of Sacramento, Calif., decisioned Pittsburgh's Curtiss Sheppard, who weighed 173.

SCORES KAYO
OAKLAND, Calif. — (AP) — Al Ware, of Stockton, Calif., scored a second-round knockout over Otis Bivins of Cleveland, last night. Ware weighed in at 205 pounds. Bivins at 190.

MIGHTY MARGARET COPS RANDALL RACE
CLEVELAND — (AP) — The swift, by-pacing Adios, Cleveland-owned Grand Circuit horse, makes his third bid to victory today in North Randall's feature event, battling three other first line pacers in the $2,280 National stake.

In yesterday's feature, Mighty Margaret, a Hambletonian candidate, won in straight heats, turning both miles in 2:07.

Tabb Hanover captured split-heat honors in the $1,000 Cleveland News stake for 2:14 pacers, winning the second and third heats after finishing fifth in the opener.

Bucs Threaten Dodgers Now

House Cleaning Made Bums Neat, Not 'Sharp.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The house cleaning of the Brooklyn Dodgers may have made them as neat as a pin, but not nearly as sharp.

Even before their rebellion they had practically no chance of capturing the National league pennant from the St. Louis Cardinals, but now they look likely to have trouble finishing second or third.

Their immediate danger looms from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who may yet get revenge for the 23-6 trouncing the Dodgers administered the day of the revolt in Brooklyn.

The Pirates have won six of their last seven games, including four out of five from the Cardinals. Yesterday the Buccaneers battered the faltering Phillies 10-2 with Bob Klinger pitching five-hit ball and Pete Coscarart and Maurice Van Robays leading a 14-hit attack.

This shaved their distance behind the Dodgers to a mere three games and gave them a chance to move up this week-end, when Brooklyn comes to Pittsburgh for a four-game series.

The Dodgers divided a double-header with Cincinnati and were hardly impressive in either game. Smothered 11-1 in the opener, they stumbled to a 9-7 decision in the nightcap.

The Cardinals lengthened their margin on top of the Dodgers to 4½ games by sweeping a double bill from the New York Giants 5-1 and 14-6.

In the other National league game Hiram Bithorn, the Puerto Rican right-hander, bagged his 11th triumph as the Chicago Cubs beat the Boston Braves 4-1.

The St. Louis Browns, who lost an entire series to the New York Yankees recently in the west, gained a 1-0 verdict over the American league champions at Yankee Stadium in the tenth inning when Vernon Stephens opened with a double and scored on a wild throw by Pitcher Charley Wenslow on Mike Chartak's sacrifice.

Lefty Al Smith pitched and batted the Cleveland Indians to a 7-0 shutout over the Philadelphia Athletics, allowing only two hits and getting a triple, double and single himself.

Chicago and Boston divided a double-header, Tex Hughson taking the first for the Red Sox 3-2 and Orval Grove getting credit for the White Sox's 8-6 triumph in the nightcap as Luke Appling batted in four runs with three hits.

A three-run rally in the ninth climaxed by George Case's single for the tying and winning runs brought Washington a 6-5 edge over Detroit in a night game.

BOUDREAU AND HIS COACHES GROW BEARDS
PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, and three of his coaches today sported six-day-old beards and solemnly vowed not to shave until the team's current winning streak was ended.

Boudreau and Coaches Burt Shotton, Del Baker and George Susce have not looked at a razor since last Saturday. They picked up more well-earned whiskers yesterday as Pitcher Al Smith shot his screwball past the Philadelphia Athletics in a two-hit game which the Indians won 7 to 0.

Women's Singles Lead In Entry List

Monday Set as Deadline For First Round Play In N-J Meet.

PAIRINGS were made yesterday in the third annual News-Journal city tennis tournament, and at the same time Woodlawn Tennis club announced its pairings, sending the court championship season into full swing.

As expected, entries in the city tournament were comparatively few. Not only has the war taken many of the city's best players into service, but the few who are left find their time taken up by longer working hours. Even in the boys and girls divisions war work kept entries down to a minimum.

Since there was never any expectation of a "successful" tournament in the number of entries, there is no reason for disappointment. Only reason for conducting the tournament this year is to keep the championships alive.

Women's division drew the largest number of entries, 10, while the men's division has a full 8-man draw.

Lois Weingartner, only former champion in the women's division, was seeded No. 1, and her sister, Meredith Fisher, finalist last year, No. 2. Ruth Isham and Mary Ettinger also were seeded and from there on pairings were strictly on the luck of the draw.

The women's tournament pairings:
Lois Weingartner-by, Anna Wilson vs. Frances Wolfe. Lois Guinlan-by, Ruth Isham-by, Mary Ettinger-by, Louise Enderle vs. Helen Myers. Jerry Banks-by, Meredith Fisher-by.

In the men's division Lowell Bourns, defending champion, and Watty Slabaugh, finalist last year, were seeded one and two, and pairings from there on were on the luck of the draw.

The first round:
Bourns vs. Frank Gaddfield, Paul Massa vs. Lee Klingman, Jim Rakestraw vs. Norman Wilcox, and Sam Campbell vs. Slabaugh.

Wilcox, defending champion in the boys' division, who will not be 18 until August, is the only seeded player in that tournament.

The pairings: Wilcox-by, Bob Black-by, Tom Bloor vs. Albert Franzen, Billy Brook-by.

Defending Champion Meredith Fisher is the only seeded player in the girls' division, drawn No. 1 position. The first round drawing there is: Fisher-by, Betty Wentz-by, Christina Schwartz vs. Barbara Samuel, Lois Casto-by.

As previously announced, all matches will be played at Maple Lake courts except those preliminary round matches between Woodlawn club members who may play on their home courts. All finals will be at Maple Lake.

The new Victory ball will be considered the standard ball, except where opponents agree among themselves to use the 1942 ball.

Since there are only two matches to be played in the first round in the women's division, one in the boys and one in the girls' divisions, Monday evening has been set for the deadline on first round play. Play may start immediately.

Contestants unable to contact opponents should call the News-Journal sports department in the mornings for telephone numbers of their opponents. Results of matches should also be called in to the sports department by the winners.

Not enough entries were received for doubles play in any division. However Bourns and Slabaugh, champions of men's doubles, have announced they are willing to defend their title in a challenge match against any doubles team caring to compete.

Pairings for the Woodlawn tournament are:
Singles—Bob Enos vs. Gaddfield, Isaly vs. Nail, Slabaugh vs. Campbell, Bourns-by.

Doubles—Bourns-Slabaugh-by, Gaddfield and Enos vs. Nail and Isaly, or Campbell.

Luck of the draw duplicates one match in the city and club singles tournament, Slabaugh vs. Campbell, who may decide for themselves whether to play one or two matches.

GETS SPECIAL ARMY DIPLOMA

Veteran of World War I Wins
Second Mechanics' Rating
In 25 Years.

(By International News Service)
KNOLLWOOD FIELD, N. C.—The distinction of being a "two-war" technical school graduate and the proud possessor of two diplomas signed by the same army officer and carrying dates that span a quarter of a century of aviation progress came to Pvt. Robert E. Townsend last week when he was graduated from the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command's Gulfport Field (Miss.) air mechanics school.

Twenty-five years ago Private Townsend became one of the first air mechanics of World War I, when he received a diploma from the U. S. Army Air Service mechanics' school in St. Paul, Minnesota. That diploma was signed by Major Walter R. Weaver, commanding officer of the St. Paul school.

Last week when he left the graduation exercises at Gulfport to join the thousands of air mechanics of World War II, Townsend carried with him his second diploma signed by Major General Walter R. Weaver, commanding general of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

General Weaver's signature was on the 1943 diploma as a result of a special request by Townsend, who brought his 1918 diploma to the attention of Gulfport Field Technical School officers with the suggestion that he would be "mighty proud if General Weaver would sign my diploma this time, too."

Townsend's unusual experience points to a significant fact in the history of technical training in the air forces. In World War I, when the air service lacked proper mechanics, Weaver, then a major in the Signal Corps, Aviation Section, was selected to organize the first Aviation Mechanics school.

BACKACHE

Is Often Caused by Faulty Operation of Kidneys

If you suffer from constant aches and pains in your back or legs, it may be nature's way of telling you that your kidneys need attention. When kidneys do not function properly, this permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, thus causing nagging aches, swelling, headaches, dizziness and loss of energy. Superior Diuretic Capsules help promote natural flow of waste fluids—flushing out kidneys and eliminating excess acids and poisons from the blood. Diuretic Capsules also contain urinary antiseptics which decrease possibility of kidney infection. Get a bottle of 50 for only 50c today.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Bridge"

NICE PLAYING MISSED

Even the very best players fail to see some of the prettiest plays which are possible in certain hands. During the post-mortem at a big duplicate, while waiting for other tables to finish a round, they usually discuss the various possibilities of the last couple of deals, until they feel that they have explored the worthwhile features of them. But sometimes a certain contract, which did not get bid, might have furnished something very spectacular, which none of them fathoms during the discussion.

If your memory of bridge hands can extend back to early last month, that deal looks familiar to you. The bidding on it was by masters in the national individual championship, and an extra trick was made. In the ensuing discussion, none of them realized what North could have done at hearts, even with a heart lead. Those cards were put up to Carlton Russell, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and his favorite partner, who by Mr. Russell's own "numerical" methods helped bid to 4-Hearts, perhaps because West may not have bid that suit. But Mr. Russell's play has been chronicled.

The heart 4 was won by the A. club 4 scored, club 3 ruffed by the heart 5, diamond 4, led to the K. club 6 ruffed with the heart 6, diamond A taken, diamond 6 ruffed by the heart 3, club 8 ruffed by the heart 10. East being unable to over-ruff and thus enabling Mr. Russell to place those honors with West.

Then came the neat wind-up. With North holding three spades, the heart J and the diamond 7, South his four spades and the club 9, and West the heart K-Q-8 and spade K-3. Mr. Russell laid down his last heart, the J. West took it, but could score only his three trump tricks, having to finish by leading from his spade K-3 into the dummy A-Q. Thus Mr. Russell scored 4-Hearts by using his last trump, an honor, to throw an opponent into the lead, truly an unusual play.

Tomorrow's Problem.

ROSE SCALE (ENLARGED)
SWELLING CAUSED BY CANE BORER

First-Aid for Bush Fruits in Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.
The Victory gardener will find that there are insects which have a great liking for bush fruits such as the raspberry and blackberry. To protect such bush fruits some knowledge of first-aid for them is required.

The blackberry and raspberry shrubs are frequently attacked by the Rose scale. As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, Rose scale is a snow-white, nearly circular scale insect. These scales are about one-fifth of an inch across when full grown. Raspberry or blackberry canes badly infested with Rose scale should be cut off and burned. Dormant applications of a miscible oil or lime-sulphur spray will control the pests.

Cane-borers, considered one of the most serious insect pests of the raspberry, also attack blackberry and dewberry plants. The larvae of the cane-borer frequently causes swellings of the canes, as illustrated. As a result of this attack, the cane dies or breaks off at the point where the swelling occurs.

To control these borers, cut out any infested canes, also any tops which seem to be withering or drooping. Make the cut somewhat below the point at which the injury occurs. Burn the cuttings, for the eggs or larvae of the borer will be in the cut off sections of cane.

Raspberries or blackberry canes should be cut off and burned. Dormant applications of a miscible oil or lime-sulphur spray will control the pests.

Another injury to the cane is caused by the cane borer. The larvae of the cane borer frequently causes swellings of the canes, as illustrated. As a result of this attack, the cane dies or breaks off at the point where the swelling occurs.

hotel, I'll know it, and report to you immediately. And now, as only an airy wave of the hand will be in place after Halloran arrives, I'll just kiss you au revoir now."

His tender caress was interrupted by the telephone. "Mr. Halloran calling," the operator said. "He wishes to come up to the room."

Dicky said, and five minutes later, Halloran, trim and smiling, appeared at the door which Dicky had set ajar.

CHUCKLES

Ragweed spores have been discovered 80 miles at sea. Probably chasing some sailor who suffers from hay fever.

One reason for the failure of the Luftwaffe to maintain air control is said to be Herr Goering's lack of faith in heavy bombers. But, boy—has he got religion now!

A whale was caught in an anti-submarine net. Probably was pursuing a floating mine under the impression it was a castaway meatball.

YANKS RACING ACROSS SICILY TO NORTH, WEST

Axis Collapsing Before U. S. Drive, Fights Stubbornly Around Catania.

The American columns were approaching Palermo, the capital of Sicily, with a last mountain range guarding that vital seaport.

Castelvetrano is 50 miles west of Agrigento and Porto Empedocle, towns on the south coast captured by the Americans last Saturday and Sunday. Sciacca is about 30 miles west of these two places.

The American steamroller was making swift progress in the drive toward Palermo on the north coast, herding panicky Italians and their German allies into the northeast corner of the island, and the Italian 26th Assault division was said to be surrendering almost en masse as Axis prisoners mounted to more than 40,000.

Along the east coast, however, fierce fighting continued between the Simeto river and Catania where the German Hermann Goering armored division and fresh Nazi forces, including a parachute infantry battalion were contesting every inch of ground with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army.

The Eighth army, however, was making steady, if slow, progress. The Italian debacle in central and western Sicily appeared to be on a scale comparable to Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's defeat at the hands of the British in the Libyan desert in 1941.

Every spark of fighting spirit appeared to have been stamped out in the ranks of an apathetic and disintegrating Italian army. New batches of prisoners complained that their officers were deserting them, wearing civilian clothing in an effort to escape.

Castelvetrano, a city of 25,000 and one of Sicily's three biggest air bases, was captured in a pre-dawn infantry assault. A huge American armored column of medium and light tanks and half-tracks, exploited the gap, said an Associated Press dispatch from the newly won city.

The city fell so rapidly that the defenders had time only to destroy a few of the military installations. It was disclosed that the often resuscitated 10th Bersaglieri regiment for the third time had been put out of action. It surrendered at Agrigento without firing a shot.

On the east coast, before Catania, the Allied commander said the Germans were resorting to heavy demolitions of roads and bridges and defense minefields to delay the Eighth army's advance.

Fierce fighting was taking place, the commander said, and heavy casualties are being inflicted on the enemy.

The Americans and Canadians were said to be chasing the retreating enemy northward in the general direction of the escape port of Messina, an advance which, if continued, would quickly put them in position to strike at Catania from the rear.

(The Italian commander reported that a British twin-engine plane which attempted machine-gunning action over a Rome air-drome this morning was shot down by a German plane.

The communiqué, recorded by the Associated Press, said Allied aircraft had bombed Naples, Grosseto, 90 miles north of Rome, and Salerno, south of Naples, on the Italian mainland, and Cagliari in Sardinia.

(Near Salerno, the war bulletin added, enemy planes machine-gunned a train transporting prisoners of war.)

BOMBERS CRASH

Ten Airmen Killed When Army Planes Collide in Midair.

MACDILL FIELD, Tampa, Fla. — (AP) — Ten army airmen were killed yesterday when two MacDill field medium bombers collided in midair near Boyett, Fla., it was announced today.

Maj. Glenn F. Marston, public relations officer, said in announcing the collision that four airmen were being withheld pending notification of relatives. Names of the six other victims included no Ohioans.

HEAVIEST U. S. RAID HITS JAPS

Harbor Base Close To Munda Smashed By Attack of 150 Yank Bombers.

was made "in support of our ground forces." This might indicate American troops were advancing from Enogai inlet, two miles northeast, where last week they destroyed the entire Japanese garrison.

Bairoko is the supply base for Munda, key Japanese defense point in the central Solomons, but Allied forces blocked traffic between the two points last week.

Only one sentence was used in reporting the ground action at Munda: "Enemy ground forces launched a strong counter attack and were repulsed with heavy losses."

(United States ground troops are within a "few thousand yards" of Munda airfield, which "now is in reach of capture," a spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., announced today.)

Over Madang, New Guinea, twin-engine Lightnings won a smashing victory against a much greater Japanese force. The battle took place during an intensive, low altitude attack by our bombers.

"Enemy planes in force were engaged by our fighter escort," the communiqué said. "They were defeated and dispersed, 19 being shot down and destroyed and 11 probably were destroyed. Two Allied planes were lost but one pilot is safe."

Report Boosts Toll Of Jap Ships, Planes

GUADALCANAL, July 17 — (Delayed) — (AP) — Nine Japanese ships including a light cruiser and three destroyers were blasted and sunk off Kahlili today in a raid by 192 United States planes smashing at the key Japanese key base in the Solomon Islands with the heaviest air stroke yet delivered in this area.

(Both a communiqué issued the day after the raid had stories from south Pacific headquarters listed only seven ships sunk and an eighth probably beached.)

The United States air command in the Solomons reported 49 Japanese fighter planes were shot down in futile attempts at interception and our losses were only five planes—three fighters, a dive bomber and a torpedo plane.

Tokyo Admits Pacific Situation 'Dark'

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Tokyo radio broadcast today an address by a Japanese air force officer declaring the war situation in the southwest Pacific was "becoming increasingly dark" as a result of "fierce and tragic air battles," the office of war information reported.

The officer, who was not identified by name, asserted Japan had achieved some "overwhelming victories" in air engagements but declared the allies "persistently come back time and again" with seemingly endless replacements.

White House Mum On Pope's Letter

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The White House today refused comment on the letter of Pope Pius XII lamenting the bombing of Rome.

Stephan T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, was asked at his news conference if he wished to comment on the Pope's letter. "I have nothing to say," Early stated.

Predicts New Airport Will Be City's 'Greatest Asset'

timate could visit Europe. In the future Mansfielders will be able to go to England at a cost of $250.

Declaring aviation to be the biggest industry in the world, Harrington said that a better post-war world could be built because aviation will bring the world closer together.

"The country with the greatest airport after this war will rule the world," he declared.

Further emphasizing how much air transportation will bring the world closer together, Harrington said the leading stores in London plan to advertise in New York papers, guaranteeing delivery the next morning.

Harrington credited our successes in Sicily to our air power. "Our ground forces are doing a fine job, but it was the air power that paved the way for the invasion with its constant bombing," he said he believed the deciding factor in this war would be air power.

Pope's Letter Expected To Bring Drive To Make Rome an Open City.

Paul's cathedral and Westminster Abbey, sacred to the Church of England, were among the scores of English churches damaged during German raids on Britain, in which Italian fliers, according to Mussolini, were given the "privilege" of participating. Lambeth palace, the residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, also was damaged.

The Swiss newspaper Basler Nachrichten editorially commented that "even the layman is aware that Rome is an important military center."

"It certainly is regrettable that San Lorenzo cathedral was destroyed," the newspaper said. "This, however, is no miracle, but the fact that only one of Rome's 400 churches was hit certainly is."

Meanwhile, a German broadcast said that 100 to 200 bodies already had been taken from the San Lorenzo district with many others believed still buried beneath the debris. Nearly 2,000 persons were injured and 10,000 rendered homeless, the broadcast asserted.

Royal Navy Leaves Huge Fires Raging In Wake of Cotrone Ship Bombardment.

Giovanni in Calabria province and about 120 miles almost due south of the naval base of Taranto.

The heaviest previous bombardment of the Italian mainland occurred on Feb. 9, 1941, when a Royal Navy squadron under command of Vice Admiral Sir James Somerville poured 300 tons of shells into the port and naval base of Genoa.

On several subsequent occasions British submarines have shelled objectives on the mainland, including railways and other communications targets.

The forces which blasted Genoa from the sea included the 32,000-ton battleship Malaya, the aircraft carrier Ark Royal and the 9,000-ton cruiser Sheffield. The Italians reported 72 persons were killed and 226 injured in the bombardment of Genoa which on several instances in the past has been heavily raided by the Royal Air Force.

Strikes Increase In North Italy

MADRID — (AP) — Strikes by night-shifts in northern Italy's factories have increased, reports to Madrid by way of Vichy said today, and peace demonstrations were reported in several Italian cities, including Rome, Tuesday.

Power facilities in the Turin-Milan-Genoa industrial triangle have been sabotaged, dispatches said.

Police and Fascist Blackshirts were said to have ignored the peace meetings in Venice, Milan, Turin, Florence, Bologna and Trieste. A huge demonstration occurred in the Central Plaza Di Venezia at Rome, it was said, with the crowds demanding that Rome be made an open city.

Italian Mainland Targets Bombed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa — (AP) — Allied bombers, striking at strongpoints on the Italian coast, laid a blanket of explosives on rail facilities at Naples, Italy's first port, and heavily raided the Crotone airfield, a communiqué announced today.

Ranging far up to Grosseto, 90 miles north of Rome, heavy bombers scored on runways and among airdrome buildings in an attack yesterday and intruder planes kept up the continual battering of internal Italian communications last night.

(An Italian communiqué broadcast by Rome radio said an airdrome at Rome was raided this morning and that Salerno on the mainland and Cagliari in Sardinia had been attacked during the past 24 hours in addition to Naples.)

Four Axis planes were shot down during all operations yesterday while the Allied aircraft continued their battering assaults against Sicily in front of advancing land forces on a day-and-night basis. Two Allied aircraft were missing.

WORKERS THUMB

Hail Rides as Warren Bus Drivers Go on Strike.

WARREN — (AP) — Warren's public transportation system was crippled today as some AFL bus drivers failed to report for work, forcing numerous war plant, office and store employees to walk or thumb rides to their jobs.

Haven Mumford, manager of the Warren Transportation Co., said 11 of the system's 16 drivers remained away from the bus barns and only partial service was provided.

Scores of men and women dependent upon the buses to get to work hailed motorists who gave them rides. Mumford reported buses still in service were covering routes at half hour, instead of the normal 15-minute intervals during the rush period.

The corn was held by the Norris Grain company and the Gargill, Inc. Payment was expected to be made through the Chicago office of the Commodity Credit corporation at government ceiling prices.

WPB Won't Share Byrnes' 'Hope'

WASHINGTON — (INS) — War Production Board officials today declared that they could not share War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes' "hope" for increased quantities of goods to be made available to civilians.

Byrnes, at a news conference, disclosed that he was making a survey of military needs, with a view to revising them downward where "over buying" is uncovered.

"It may release more materials for civilian goods," Byrnes said. "No, use the word hope; I think it is a better word. I hope it will release more materials."

Byrnes likewise indicated that he was utilizing the services of Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board in 1917-18, when he declared that results of the survey so far "look good to me and Baruch."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The National Labor Relations board today ordered an election within 30 days at the United States Rubber company's Scioto Ordnance plant at Marion, Ohio, to determine whether plant-protection firemen employed there wish to be represented for bargaining purposes by CIO-United Rubber Workers of America or the AFL-Federal Labor union.

to hold their grain this summer, it was pointed out, since there is less of it to store and other crops and produce are bringing higher prices to enable them to keep their wheat off the market without suffering financially.

Harvesting operations in the northern half of the country were halted temporarily last night by heavy rainfall in that section. There was little or no rain south of Mansfield, however, and threshing continued there today.

Meanwhile, the Federal-State Crop Reporting service in Columbus said today the prospective corn yield in Ohio this year is 41 bushels per acre, or 15 bushels below last year.

Corn was planted late because of the cold, wet weather in May, but has been helped by favorable weather in the past six weeks, crop experts reported. The state's corn estimate for this year is 141,450,000 bushels as compared with 185,752,000 bushels last year.

The Ohio wheat yield is expected to show a greater decline with the 1943 crop estimated at 26,367,000 bushels, about 10,000,000 bushels under the 1942 figure. This year's yield per acre was placed at 17 bushels as against 21 bushels last year. Rust and scab have combined to cause serious damage to wheat in most sections of the state.

NEW LIBRARY NOVEL PREDICTS WORLD WAR III

Deals With South American Invasion After Peace Negotiation Trap.

"Dawn Over the Amazon," by Carleton Beals, one of the new books to be released Saturday at the Mansfield Public Library, is a colorful and dramatic novel predicting a World War III in 1951, after the allies of World War II have fallen into the trap of a negotiated peace and during the struggle of the western hemisphere against Axis invasion.

Two realistic love stories bring together the strands of the narrative as Grant Hammond, a Yankee, strives for the international development of the Amazon basin, and the Reaper, leader of the people, unites the South American nations in their fight for freedom.

"The Last of Summer" by Kate O'Brien is a story of Ireland in the days immediately preceding the outbreak of war in September, 1939, of a beautiful woman who rules her household with an iron hand in a silken glove and of her niece, Angelina, who comes from France to challenge her authority and her Irish sense of detachment. It is a beautiful piece of literary craftsmanship, and brings a clear interpretation of Ireland's sense of isolation in this war.

"The Last Inspection" by Alun Lewis is a fine collection of short stories, mainly about the men in the fighting forces in England. Many of them are brief, but their excellence lies in the perception and depth of their conception and the beauty with which they are written.

Other Fiction.

"There's Something in the Air," Bates; "Death of a Busybody," Bellairs; "Murder in Tow," Stevens.

"U. S. Foreign Policy: Shield of the Republic" by Walter Lippman, a popular writer and columnist and a man who worked with President Wilson during the last peace conference, is a summary—in the form of a challenge—of the foreign policy views held by the United States now and in the past.

and how these views have embroiled this country in two great wars for which we were unprepared either to fight or to make the peace.

"While We Are Absent" by Mrs. Ann Leighton is made up of sketches and reminiscences of the life of the American wife of a British army officer during a three-year separation due to war.

"Mr. Justice Holmes" by Francis Biddle is an intimate portrait of the late Justice of the United States supreme court, Oliver Wendell Holmes, by the present Attorney General of the United States.

"Chips" a new volume of poetry, has been given to the library by its author—Richard H. Sotherland, of Mansfield.

Other Non-Fiction.

"The Peace We Fight For," Motherwell, "Flight (Aviation Engines)" Kuns, "Aircraft Handbook" Colvin, "American Electricians' Handbook" Croft, "Shop Theory" Henry Ford Trade school, "Physics and Philosophy" Jeans, "The Floor of the Ocean," Daly, "Short Course of Surveying" Davis and Kelly, "The Cincinnati Guide" Writers' Program, "Patterns of Negro Segregation" Johnson

When Bowels Refuse to Move Easily—Watch Out!

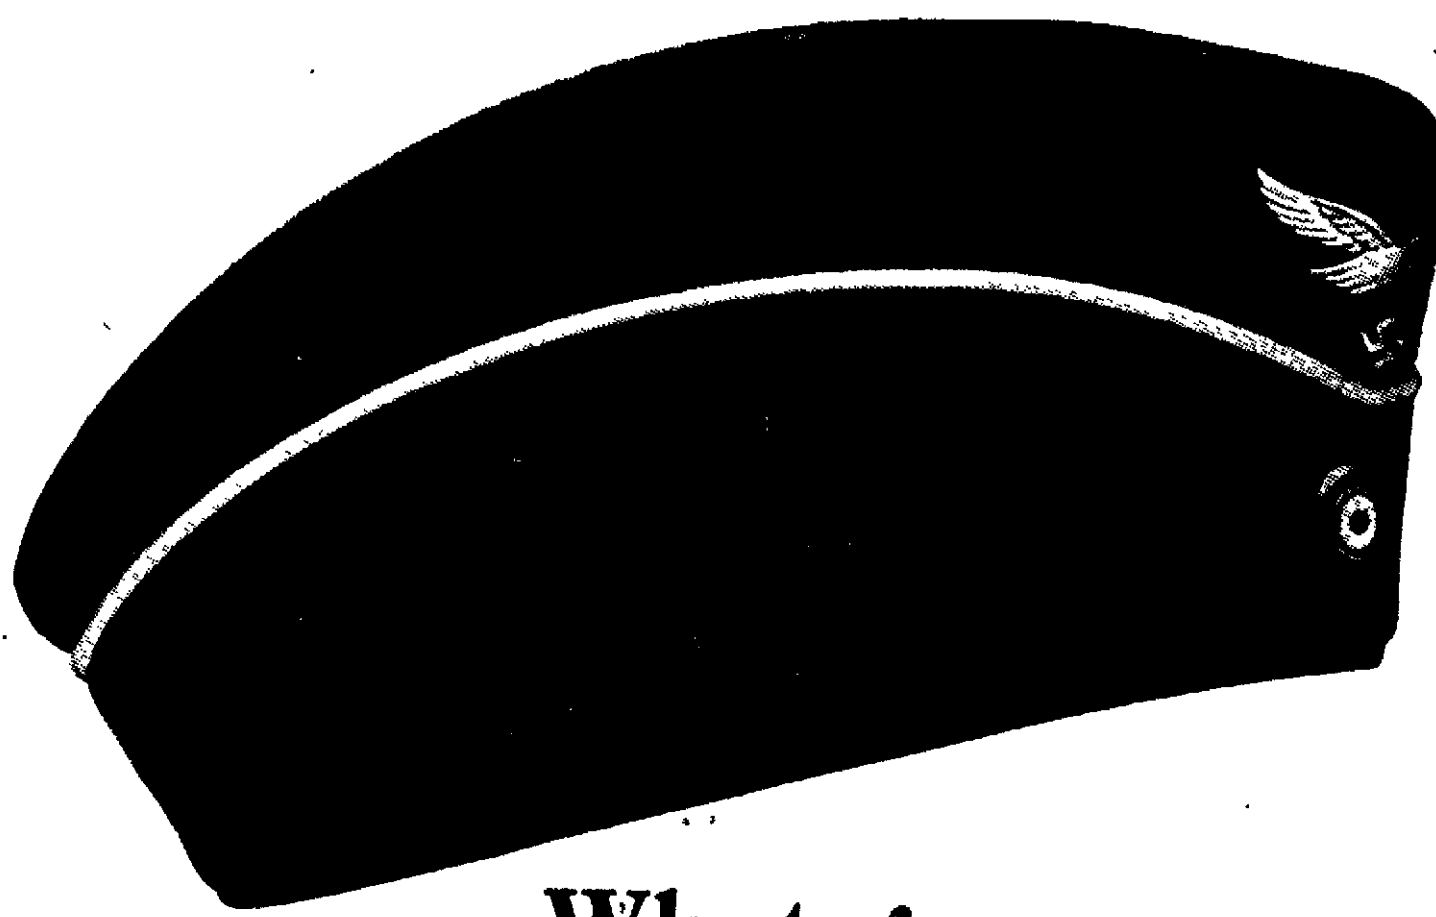

Forcing! Straining!—a Common cause of Hemorrhoids—Here's Easy Quick Way to Moistening Hard Dry Passages

When because of constipation you wake up mornings feeling half sick, headachy, with a stomach that rebels at food, tongue coated, bad breath; upset and "out-of-sorts"—bowel movements an effort—you want relief and you want it fast.

In a glass of hot water put one teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts and drink. 15 to 20 minutes later follow with your usual breakfast cup of hot coffee or tea. Moisture is promptly fed into those hard, dry wastes softening them so they can be more gently and easily expelled. Usually within 30 minutes you get glorious relief and should begin to feel bright and refreshed again.

Take only as directed. Try Kruschen for 5 days—for you can so regulate the dose as to bring about that "easy" movement such as you have long desired.

Don't delay — Get Kruschen Salts for prompt and effective relief from forcing and straining. Ask for it today at any drug store. (Muir's Out Rate Drug Store.)

What goes on under a Nazi pilot's cap?

PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE . . . in his cockpit climbing swiftly away from an Axis airfield into a pitch-black night . . . bomb racks loaded . . . heading for Yank-held territory.

How would your mind work (under a Nazi bonnet), if you knew Radar's sleepless, X-ray "eyes" were waiting up to greet you . . . on warships, airfields, and lookout posts of the United Nations' forces?

What would you be thinking . . . knowing that Radar was robbing you of "surprise", the attacker's one tactical advantage . . . detecting you as much as 130 miles from your target? Always watching you . . . in storm, clouds, and fog . . . five miles up or skimming the waves! . . . marking you for ambush and destruction!

When the flak whams accurately through the clouds to rip jagged wing holes; when you meet night fighters who need no flame from your exhausts for true aiming, wouldn't you momentarily doubt the infallibility of the "master race"?

Wouldn't you nurse a scowling respect for American ingenuity? For Radar was developed in the United States . . . pretty much the product of Navy and Army research laboratories who weren't as unprepared as you thought.

And shouldn't it occur to you that a fellow can't win when he's fighting against a nation with the inventiveness and resources to produce weapons like this?

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Here are famous dates in the history of Radar

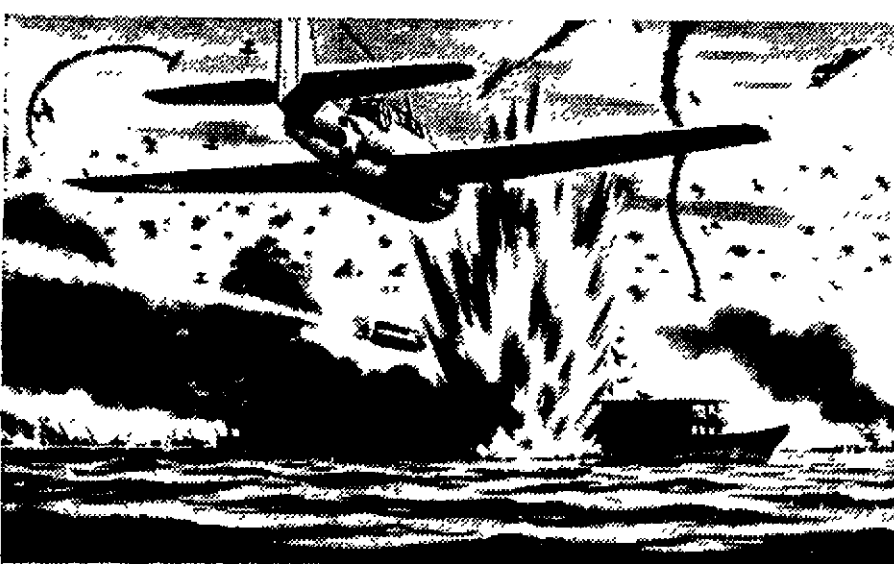

1922. Naval Aircraft Radio Laboratory, Anacostia, D. C. Dr. A. Hoyt Taylor and Leo C. Young, observing that radio signals were reflected by steel buildings and passing ships, suggested it as a means of detecting enemy vessels in darkness, fog, and smoke. This was the birth of Radar!

1937. Bloomfield, N. J. Westinghouse developed the key electronic tube for the U. S. Army's first Radar equipment used to detect aircraft. Radar "beamcasting" focuses invisible, ultra-high-frequency waves traveling at the incredible speed of 186,000 miles per second.

1941. Pearl Harbor, T. H. Lieut. Lockard, then a private using Radar equipment made by Westinghouse, detected and reported the approaching Jap bombers when 132 miles distant, and still a half hour away. Because a flight of American planes was expected, no warning was sounded.

1943. On every front Radar fights with our men . . . playing an important part at Midway . . . guiding our landing forces through thick fog into Attu harbor . . . helping our fleet off Guadalcanal "see" a Jap warship eight miles away in pitch darkness—and sink it on its second salvo! Radar has revolutionized naval and air battle tactics . . . and multiplied a hundredfold the range of human vision.

1950. Postwar Transportation by air and ocean holds Radar's promise of undreamed security. Pilots of the future's giant air liners will ride through the clouds, fog, and darkness, confident that Radar will warn them of mountains, tall buildings, or planes in their path. Our ocean shipping will use it to avoid collisions with icebergs, rocks, and other ships—and to enter harbors in heavy fog.

Westinghouse was making Radar 18 months before Pearl Harbor. Since then, Westinghouse production of radio communications equipment, including Radar, has increased 41 times!

CHAPTER VI

Meegan went into the house and up the broad stairway to her room. A room that was so much her own that when the house was no longer theirs, the room would continue to be stamped with her thoughts and actions in it. It was a large, high-ceilinged room with frilly white organdy curtains at the windows and white wall paper splashed with blue flowers somewhat faded now. The furniture was old mahogany, scarred but polished, and the hooked rugs had been made by her grandmother. It was a room that was a haven and a refuge after sharing a bedroom with her mother in the small city apartment. One of the worst things that can happen to a girl, she had thought often lately, was not to have a room of her own. Here the stone fireplace was associated with her father's jovial visits before she had gone to bed as a child. Now so many of the nice things she wished she had told him would never be said. Death was irreparable loss.

She walked to the window, seeing the island dotted with pretty houses and beyond them the beach and the bay. It was a halcyon summer scene and its peace and beauty lifted her heart. But suddenly though the sun was still shining, it was as though she saw a storm gather and furiously burst spreading confusion and darkness. And the storm was not the war; nor was it a combustible thing of the heavens. It was Clare whose hands struck mischief as though lighting a flame.

She thought of Paul whose enlistment in the Army Air Corps and whose subsequent training in Texas had cut short what her mother had thought was a hopeful romance. To think of him was to remember his thin face and sandy hair and deep set blue eyes, his gentle manner and patient love for her. But she did not respond and the mildness of his love evoked even a shudder of his tipthiness. She could go on liking him for the rest of her life and writing him cheerful letters and hoping and praying that he would not die in the air . . . but she could not marry him. No amount of self-lecturing on the wisdom of such a marriage (Paul had said that he could well afford to take care of her mother) had convinced her that she could go through with it.

She had seen Fayne only once, the day of his wedding and later at the reception at the island club house. And it was not how he looked or what he had said but what he had done to her imagination that so impressed her that she had not been able to put him out of her mind. She had read about him in the newspapers, for the local papers had made much of a local girl's marriage to Fayne Christopher, the last of a long line of industrialists, educators and statesmen. The schools he had attended, the best, were mentioned as well as his keen interest in travel and sports. Also he was said to take a keen interest in the factories which bore his name. A hater of publicity, it was not until his engagement to Clare was announced that many people had heard of him. They would not have heard of him then, Meegan had often thought, had not Clare's aunt been an inveterate writer of news to the papers.

She had seen him first standing at the altar of the island church, the same ivy-covered, slender-stepped church at which she was now looking. With a soldier's bearing he had stood, his deep tan accentuated by his close-cropped fair hair. His face might have been stern but for the betraying excitement in his eyes. His eyes seemed to have had an electrifying effect upon her, making her, unseen, unknown, a young girl in the sixth pew wearing a blue dress and a hat with cornflowers on it, more conscious of being alive than she had ever been before or since. Then Clare had come, so beautiful, and they had been married . . .

The phone of her night table rang.

Adele said, "I suppose you got an invitation . . ."

"Yes, Toby and I both. Did you?"

"You don't think for a moment that Clare thinks I've let a little thing like Jerry's death upset my life . . . Are you going?"

"Yes, Toby and I are going together." It had been a long time since she and Toby had gone anywhere together. That in itself was an event.

Adele said, "So am I. Listen, if I've been wrong and she's okay, I won't be a long face around here this summer."

"You're very fair. I'm glad you feel that way."

"Her husband is in Washington. Something in the government. Seems as how he knows Europe and Africa like a book and they are using him. Commissioned a captain. One of the girls I met swimming today told me. She works in Washington. He can commute, so I suppose that's one of the reasons they took a house here. All of which makes us one big happy family . . . maybe."

"Don't sound so threatening," she tried to say lightly.

Adele's voice was heavy. "I've waited a long time for this . . ."

Toby was dressed and waiting and she had only begun to dress. Yet somehow she could not hurry. Her thoughts were rattling about in her mind like squirrels in a cage. She slipped into her dress, sat down at the dressing table and picked up the silver-backed brush, brushing her hair up into a conservative pompadour and then screwing in her ears small imitation pearl earrings. Perhaps she wanted to look older today, she thought. Perhaps she still resented that they treated her as though she were an infant. Why couldn't one discard the little hurts and slights of childhood? But they seemed to grow up in one, becoming bigger hurts and slights as one grew older.

But thoughts were no good now. The past and the present were merging today and Toby would be furious if she kept him waiting much longer. He had been in such a good mood all week. She got up, picked up her white purse (no one on the island ever wore a hat or carried gloves) and went downstairs where Toby, immaculate and very handsome in white linen, was waiting with their mother. Meegan thought, I wish I didn't think every time I see Toby in a white linen suit how much it costs to have one laundered. I'd like him to wear a fresh one every day . . .

Toby grinned, uncrossed his long legs and got up. "You certainly took long enough," he said. But he was smiling, teasing her. The tenseness of her face relaxed. It was wonderful to see him smile, to have him tease her . . .

"You look lovely, dear," Elinor McLean said. "I like your hair that way. It brings out your nice features to a better advantage. Have a good time and remember me to Clare and tell her to come to see us. I know it will be a marvelous party. She always does things so well." Toby had an excited look that interested Meegan as they walked to the car. She knew she had been staring at him when he asked, "Well, what's the matter with me now?"

"Oh! Nothing . . ."

"You wouldn't kid me, would you? Your face always gives you away. You can't hide anything behind that face. I might add that it's a mighty fine face, one of the best."

"Thank you, Toby. Thank you very much. A compliment from you makes me feel very festive."

"I thought your boy friends took care of them for you. Paul anyway . . ."

She smiled. "Paul isn't very articulate, you know."

"No, he isn't. He's a nice guy but when you've said that about him, you've said everything. Not much imagination. I hope to God you don't marry him. You'd starve . . . And I don't mean you wouldn't eat well." In the car he gave her a long inquisitive look. His eyes quickened and his mouth pulled mischievously at one corner. "It's this party of Clare's is any criterion of the one I went to in Rome, it will have this staid little community on its ears."

When Meegan's eyes opened wide, he laughed. "Yes, I saw Clare in Rome the summer before Dad died. She had a party to end all parties, a real Roman banquet that would have made the old emperors green with envy . . ."

"You didn't tell us you'd seen her, Toby."

"I didn't tell anybody here. I didn't want to explain or answer questions. Besides, Clare and I are somewhat alike, if you analyze us. We're both bad pennies."

"Stop feeling sorry for yourself."

"Okay, pal. Here we go. This

ROUTZON NAMED TO SERVE ON OHIO DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, will serve as a member of the committee which will survey Ohio industry and agriculture as a part of the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission's post-war program. William A. Mills, director of the organization relations of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, announced today.

Mills, representing the Chamber of Commerce, is one of the 25 experts of various fields appointed by Governor John W. Bricker to the commission. Each member of the commission in turn serves as chairman of a committee of his own choosing.

Routzon said today he would be glad to serve on the committee. Describing it as a peace-time project in which a survey is made of the local natural resources to encourage manufacturers to establish plants and branches in Ohio, Routzon said Ohio has been behind other states in this respect for many years.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up middle, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Very Special Delivery

Sending a memo from one Hollywood studio office to another is no longer merely sending a memo. It's got glamor. Scores of girls like those above, some with sweaters, some with peek-a-boos, but so far none in sarongs—have taken over the messenger boy jobs vacated by war-called youths. One of the girls, Beryl McCutcheon, 18 (center), took the place of her brother David when he joined the U. S. Coast Guard. She wasn't on the job long before she had a screen test, and a contract. Beryl looks the contract over amid a bevy of other feminine messengers.

U. S. LOSSES ONE-FOURTH OF LAST WAR TOTAL

But Patterson Warns That Casualties Will Grow Much Heavier.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON—Pointing out that the United States has been participating in this war longer than it was in World War I, Acting Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson today released comparative figures showing American army casualties in this conflict are only about one-fourth as heavy as in the last war.
"We must expect our casualties in the future will be much heavier," Patterson warned. "The period of relative quiet has gone. The war will proceed at a faster pace."
Army casualties to July 7, 1943, in this war total 65,136 as opposed to 248,589 in the last war, he pointed out.
Thus far in this war 7,471 American army men have been killed as contrasted with 37,569 who fell in action in the last war. In this war 673 men have died of wounds, contrasted with 12,942 deaths attributed to wounds in the earlier conflict.
The total of wounded, other than mortal, in this war is 17,724 compared with 193,663 wounded in World War I.
However, the United States has lost more prisoners to the enemy in this war, with 18,192 Americans reported as prisoners of the Axis. In the last war 4,416 Americans were taken prisoner.
Army records also show 21,076 men missing.
These totals do not include United States losses during the last three weeks of fighting in Sicily, New Guinea and the Solomons, Patterson pointed out.
"We will do well not to underestimate the capacities of the enemy or the possible casualties we will experience," he said.

PLAN 130 MORE DWELLING UNITS

HOLC Officials Setting Up Project To Lease Homes To War Workers.

The National Housing administration today had set up a project which will provide up to 130 more dwelling units for war workers in Mansfield and Shelby with the government to lease the properties from the owners and then rent them to workers on a monthly basis.
Under the supervision of the Home Owners Loan corporation, a unit of the National Housing administration, the project will supplement a Federal Housing project set up in Mansfield and Shelby early this month.
The HOLC today had named the Huff Realty company in Mansfield and the S. H. Knapp agency in Shelby to represent the government in negotiations for dwelling properties.
Buildings which can be converted into living quarters for two or more families will be leased by the federal agency and enlarged and put in condition for occupancy. War workers then will be able to rent the properties by the month from the government.
Local architects will prepare plans and specifications for the work and submit them to the owners. An annual rental fee will be agreed upon before the lease is signed.
The federal agency then will provide for the remodeling and improvements to make the buildings ready for occupancy.
The plan was outlined to Mansfield and Shelby realtors yesterday at a meeting in Mansfield before the two real estate agencies were selected to handle the leases. Application blanks and information will be available at the real estate offices in both cities.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 23.
According to the lunar and mutual aspects this should be a good day for serious and steady application to tasks, duties and investments of funds and energies expected to have enduring and stable returns. This may be in association with old-established institutions, with diplomatic or political groups, where sound obligations and abilities are recognized. Well-organized strategies may be employed but earnest effort, based on principle and fidelity should win in the long run, with rewards of merit and lasting results worth working for with diligence and straightforwardness. In private affairs also let duty be the watchword. Elders and home ties will be appreciative.
Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which lasting and substantial rewards with recognition for past performances may be expected. It is a time for working with serious and sustained efforts, guided by quickened and dependable intuition, employing diplomacy, tact and stratagem. Sound investments in lands, property and securities are encouraged. Elders and old institutions may confer worthwhile benefits.
A child born on this day will be endowed with cold and dependable abilities and traits of character. It should be industrious and practical although philosophical and somewhat psychic and have reliable intuitions.

Persons who feel that they have been charged more than the ceiling price in grocery stores and meat markets should report this to the ration board, Charles Beelman, chairman of the board, said today.

Beelman explained that the board has no way of finding out about violations unless consumers report them. The complaints will all be investigated, he said.

Motorists Appear For Traffic Law Violations.

Three Mansfield motorists were fined in city traffic court Wednesday afternoon for violations of driving regulations.
Reginald C. Phillips, 28, of Mansfield, R. D. 1, was fined $50 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way to another motorist last Saturday night at Fourth and Diamond streets. Acting Municipal Judge J. V. Will suspended the fine on the condition that damage to the second car involved in the collision are paid by Phillips.
Miss Anna Marie Zgola, 311 Beymiller street, was fined $5 and costs for driving with a temporary permit and unaccompanied by a licensed driver.
Also fined $5 and costs was Christ Chokroff, 66 Helen avenue, for permitting his 13-year-old son to drive without a license. Defendants in all the cases were cited by police.
